

Basic Wildlife Photography Workshop

Photographing wildlife is not all that difficult if you know where and when the animals will appear,. It also is extremely helpful if you know how to use your photo equipment.

In this basic wildlife photography workshop you will learn some of the basic ingredients on finding wildlife and photographing them in their habitat. Some basic knowledge of the subject animals is imperative and this will be covered as well.

A slideshow of wildlife photographs taken by Bob Shank and his son, James, will help to demonstrate some of the basic techniques. You will learn the importance of patience and some of the equipment and accessories that will aid you in capturing great wildlife photographs!
